In the Community

We are delighted to chat to Aniko, minister of Lammermuir Parish Church

Can you tell us a bit about yourself?

I live with my husband and son in Gifford. We've lived in the parish for over 10 years. I was born in East Germany and have lived and worked in France, Italy, Norway and Palestine. I enjoy music, reading, gardening, photography and spending time with my (many) pets.

What is your vision for the church in the parish?

The vision is mainly set by the elders, committed church members from the parish. It's been a challenging time, with restructuring and making the heart-breaking decisions of closing two of our beloved churches, due to the decline in membership and income over decades. However, we see a strengthening of friendships across the community and between different parts of the parish - it's quite a bit area now. The church is a place where everyone is welcome to services and events and in times of need. There is lots going on beyond the Sunday services!

With the church closure, will there be a church presence in Saltoun? ?

Absolutely. We are sad to lose the church, but the church community goes far beyond its buildings. The session rooms host monthly coffee mornings and they are available to all residents that need a space to meet. A mental health surgery was suggested to be held there and if someone wants to arrange events like that, please get in touch!

Governance

The new committee is settling in and planning a year of events and activities to be published soon.

Behind the scenes we are setting up improved IT and document management, registering for Gift Aid and planning projects with Queen Margret University students as well as looking at funding for hall improvement.

The other big news is the purchase of a new cooker!
